LARGE TIMBER TRACT SWIFT BY FIRE; BARN BURNS*Heavy Loss on James Anderson Farm, Four Miles From Oilport.*OTHER FIRES REPORTED*Fire Breaks Out Again on Hill Overlooking Connellsville; Reports Heard That Unknown Boy Applied Match to See If Burn; Other Blazes.

About 170 acres of land in the vicinity of Oilport was burned over Sunday before a force of nearly 50 men and two fire wardens succeeded in surrounding two blazes, one two miles east of Oilport, along the railroad, the other in the Kentuck region, four miles from the town.

The first mentioned fire was of small consequence, being confined to 20 acres. The second swept over 150 acres of practically virgin timber owned by James Anderson. An old log barn on the Anderson farm was destroyed.

Townsmen J. H. Woodmancy spotted the fire and summoned aid. Warden Charles Turner of near Chalk Hill assembled a force of "minutemen," which was later augmented by a force under the direction of P. S. Roebuck, whose home is on top of the mountain above Dunbar. All counted there were 45 of the fire fighters. They spent a large part of the day on the Anderson fire.

Mr. Woodmancy, who also is an inspector, will go over the fire areas to determine the damage.

Aided by the strong wind which prevailed all day yesterday the fire which has been burning in the woods above Wills road for the past few days, became serious enough Sunday to cause a number of persons living in that vicinity and in the nearby mountains to get out and fight it, in order to save their homes. Three hundred dollars worth of fence on the old Trump place was destroyed by the fire. The Strider farm, which is situated on the other side of the boulevard, was threatened.

It is reported that a boy, whose name was not learned, set fire to the woods yesterday in six or seven places.

A quantity of matches were found along Wills road and turned over to the police. It is believed some one had taken them there with the intention of starting new fires. The rain Saturday night did not last long enough to aid materially in quenching the fire.

Brush fires were reported along the railroad between Connellsville and Indian Creek. "That on the hill above the South Side and East Park continued to burn Sunday. The slight rainfall of the Saturday night was not sufficient to quench it.

Fires are reported along the Westmoreland-Fayette line in the region of Donegal.

Travelers over the mountains from Altoona report numerous forest fires burning Sunday.

Thousands of Acres Burned
Over in Jersey*By Associated Press.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 23.—Forest fires, which burned the Methodist Episcopal Church, several homes, barns and other buildings yesterday were extinguished last night after having swept 20 square miles of timber land in Ocean county. The loss of timber and buildings is estimated to be $250,000. Several summer camps on the Mottedecock River were wiped out.

Another fire, which destroyed 4,000 acres of oak and pine timber land near Lakewood was believed also to have been brought under control.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Several thousands of acres have been burned over by forest fires starting yesterday in Prince George and Montgomery counties, near the District of Columbia line. The largest started three miles from Derwin and swept a patch four miles long and destroyed a residence.

John C. Totten, Old-Time
Musician Dies at 98 Years;
Took Daily Sprint on Farm

John C. Totten, 98, one of the oldest men in Fayette county and until stricken with pneumonia a month ago its most active for his advanced years, died Sunday night at his home at Kentuck, in the country from Oilport. It was the custom of Mr. Totten to take daily exercise in the form of a brisk run over his farm or along the road. He kept up this practice until just a few weeks ago. Such was his vitality that he had apparently shaken off the effects of pneumonia when he suffered a relapse.

Mr. Totten was educated for a physician but after turning his attention to music, for years he was organist at the First Presbyterian Church in Oilport. He came to Oilport many years ago and had since resided in that locality. He once sold musical instruments and for many years was engaged in the teaching of music. He was said to have been a pioneer in teaching of singing by note in this section of the State.

Surviving are a son, John C. Totten and a daughter, Miss Nora Totten.

NOTORIOUS PLACE
ALONG BREAKNECK
ROAD BROKEN UP*State Police Co-Operate With Chief of Police P. M. Murphy.*RAID ON WEST SIDE, ALSO

A house of alleged ill repute along the Breakneck road, said to be a source of much liquor and a rendezvous for gatherings of a disorderly nature, was "cleaned out" in a raid Saturday night by state police, working in conjunction with Chief of Police P. M. Murphy. Fifteen patrons and inmates were arrested and three local men, charged with illegal transportation of intoxicating liquors, were also caught.

Following the return from the roadhouse, the state officers, accompanied by city police, went to the establishment of Tony Roberts, Sr., on the West Side and raided the place, confiscating 20 gallons of whiskey and gin.

The raids on the two places were in charge of Sergeant Hudson of Troop A. As the police were about to leave the Breakneck road place, two automobiles, one driven by Milton Keller and the other by Tony Roberts Jr., pulled up. A quart of bonded gin was found in the back operated by Keller and six quarts of the same stuff were in Roberts' machine. Both cars were confiscated under the new dry law which became effective March 27. James Marturano, of Eleventh street, West Side, was arrested also. He was an expert of Roberts' car.

All defendants were taken to the office of Alderman Fred Munk. Tony Roberts, Sr., was held in $2,500 bail for the June term of court. The others arrested for having liquor in the automobiles occupied by them were held in $1,000 bail each.

Before Keller was taken to the alderman's office an agreement was reached to settle his case through the city authorities providing the defendant would tell where he got the gin. Keller refused, however, even after three-quarters of an hour questioning by Chief Murphy, and elected to take his chance in court. By this morning he had undergone a change of mind and wanted the city to handle his case but Murphy informed the man he had had his chance.

Lill Brown, proprietors of the house, together with the inmates and patrons, each left forfeits of $25 for hearings before Alderman McCombs of New Salem and were released.

Residents in the vicinity of the disorderly house say its activities never cease and that recently it has been flourishing night and day. City police were not able to handle the case because the place was beyond the city limits, but many arrests were made as a result of the liquor sold there. To put an end to the nuisance Chief Murphy called in the state officers.

Triple Motor
Crash Saturday on Scottdale Road

A triple collision occurred on the new Scottdale road Saturday evening when R. W. Cover of this city stopped to adjust curtains on his machine as rain began to fall. A car driven by Steve Pinky of Scottdale struck the rear of the Cover machine, throwing Mr. Cover out on his head. The car was knocked cross-wise on the road and when a man named Cove, also from Scottdale, happened along, he rammed the automobile. All three cars were damaged.

Cover came here and had his wound, caused by lightning on the concrete road when thrown from the machine, cared for by a physician. He also had a battered eye.

H. M. Kephart
Enters Plea;
Fined $3,425

By Associated Press.
PITTSBURG, April 23.—Harmion Kephart, former state treasurer, after pleading nolo contendere in Dauphin court today to charges of misdemeanor in office while state treasurer, was sentenced to pay a fine of $3,425 and costs.

HARRISBURG, April 23.—Harmion Kephart, deputy state treasurer, entered a plea of nolo contendere in Dauphin county court here today to charges of misdemeanor in office while state treasurer during the four years ending May 1, 1921.

The charges alleged failure to keep correct accounts of funds entrusted to him and failure to make reports to the auditor general as required by law.

The plea, which was entered by counsel for the former treasurer, was unexpected, preparations having been made to start the trial Monday.

The attorney general announced last night the case would come before the Dauphin County Court, with expectation that a decision would be reached as to whether jurors were to be summoned and plans made for proceeding with the trial.

Kephart was in court. Nine indictments similar in nature were pending. All were the outgrowth of an audit of the accounts of the state treasurer made last year by a firm of public accountants. Four were returned by the Dauphin county grand jury last September and five others in January, last.

This is the sixth increase since July 28, 1922. The 12 per cent rate was established on January 18, last. After that week's slump in the mark government financial writers asserted that the Reichsbank was reluctant to continue its support of the currency, but it agreed to the government plan that it make a final attempt to stop depreciation. This effort, it was said, cost five million pounds sterling.

Kobacker's Store
Changed to Nelson's
After Head of Firm

The name Kobacker is to disappear from Connellsville merchandising. Identified with the business of the city since the nineties, it will give place to Nelson's, after Nelson A. Blansner, president of M. Nathan & Brothers of Johnstown, which firm some time ago took over the business which had been conducted under the name of Kobacker's and which name was continued to this time by the buyers.

"There is no change of ownership, management nor principle," says the announcement. "The object will be the same courteous service, quality merchandise and reasonable merchandise at the lowest prices."

The change is effective at once.

91 Essays Were Entered in Kiwanis Courtesy Contest

To determine who are the authors of the best essays on "More Courtesy, Please" submitted by students of the public and parochial schools in the contest arranged by the Kiwanis Club as a feature of "Courtesy Week," is going to be no light or easy task for the committee of judges appointed by R. M. Evans, chairman of the club's committee on business standards and methods.

Several days time will be required to make a careful examination of the manuscripts turned over to the committee of judges by Mr. Evans. These aggregate 91, 60 of which were prepared by grade and high school students and 31 by students of the parochial school.

A preliminary examination of the essays shows that considerable care has been taken by the authors in preparing them, both in the matter of handwriting and arrangement of text. The manuscripts as a whole reflect no little credit upon the writers and the teachers under whom the students have received instruction in composition.

Addressing a business men's luncheon, Mr. Marshall, who formerly held the rank of brigadier general, said the Department of Justice, after five years and following investigations costing thousands of dollars had the opportunity to plead unpreparedness in several of the cases, at the same time accusing contractors of inefficiency for having built whole cities in 90 days.

Farmers.*ADDRESS AT FLATWOODS

In the Evening Following a Day Spent at Points in Dunbar, Franklin and Bullskin Townships Will Have Interesting Message for Corn Growers.

Farmers of northern Fayette will have exceptional opportunities tomorrow and tomorrow evening to receive the benefits of expert information in all that relates to the selection of seed, preparing the soil, planting and cultivating corn.

E. J. Walters of Pennsylvania State College, who enjoys a national reputation as a corn specialist, and who has served as judge in a number of national corn shows, and has been engaged in a study of corn growing for years, will visit Bullskin, Franklin and Dunbar townships tomorrow, concluding the day with an address before a mass meeting of farmers in the Grange Hall at Flatwoods in the evening at 8 o'clock.

Accompanied by County Farm Agent C. L. Rumberger he will make a tour of this section of the county tomorrow with stops scheduled at the farms of M. G. Griffin in Franklin township, Jesse L. Snyder near Murphy Sliding and Charles Rhodes near Woodale in Bullskin township. A stop will also be made at Bethelton in Dunbar township.

The visit of Mr. Walters a few weeks in advance of the corn planting season is regarded by County Agent Rumberger as most fortunate for the farmers who are interested in insuring the success of their planting and in a larger yield of corn. Mr. Walters has the faculty of making his talks intensely interesting and replete with the latest information that is of practical value to all corn growers.

As a result of the attention given to corn since the establishment of the Farm Bureau and agricultural extension service in Fayette county, farmers have made rapid progress toward improving the grade and yield of the corn crop. It is for the purpose of creating still greater interest in the possibilities of further improvement that County Agent Rumberger has arranged for the visit of Mr. Walters. He will doubtless be greeted by a large turnout of farmers at the various points visited and especially at Flatwoods where he will deliver an address covering broadly the whole subject of corn growing.

Winning Out With Asters

The rivalry among gardeners to produce the largest and finest asters is one of the most interesting features of the garden season and cultural skill is the chief factor which must be depended upon to produce the desired results. The selection of seed will in large measure tell the size of the flowers, relatively, as some varieties naturally are larger flowered than others. As a rule the later flowering types are larger flowered than the earliest. Asters will thrive in any soil which will produce good vegetables and they will repay any extra attention in the way of fertilizing. They also need cultivation all summer to be kept in unchecked and vigorous growth. Commercial fertilizer, particularly bone meal, should be used at intervals of two or three weeks, is a great help. The addition of wood ashes or air-slacked lime when the bed is prepared is coming to be considered as essential. It not only adds valuable fertilizer to the soil in the case of ashes and sweetens the soil and releases plant food in the case of the lime, but these two act as a check to the stem rot which has given aster growers no end of trouble during the last season or two. The root aphid or plant louse also is troublesome but if the soil is rich, has been limed or given wood ashes, the pest is not likely to give trouble. For August and later flowering it is quite as advisable to start the seed in the open ground as in the house or frame. The plants will be more vigorous in most cases. They may be sown until well into May to continue the succession of flowers until frost. If asters are desired with long stems for cutting they should be given at least a foot apart in rows two feet apart. If for massing in beds for a sheet of color also inches to a foot each way is the closest they should be placed dependent upon the variety and its style of growth. The succession of asters is about the following: July, earliest of all, Queen of the market and Royal types; August, Ostich Plume and Victoria; September, Late Branching, Congo and King types. September and October, American Beauty type

BUSINESS MAN IN PHILADELPHIA SAYS IT IS FINE

Manager Ellis Declares Tanlac Ended Indigestion, Gases, Weakness and Insomnia.

"Tanlac certainly proved its merits in my case, and I'll tell others about it every chance I get," is the positive statement of Ernest E. Ellis, 708, 11th St., Philadelphia, well-known manager of the commercial and photographic art studio at 405 Market St.

"Indigestion had such a grip on me that I used to look forward to meal-time with dread, for I knew it would mean hours of suffering with my stomach. Gas and sourness caused little restful sleep and grew into such a run-down condition that my life was simply miserable.

"I can hardly say how thankful I am for the gratifying results I obtained from the Tanlac treatment. I now eat heartily of all kinds of food with absolutely no ill effects, sleep like a top and always feel fresh and daisy. I consider Tanlac a wonderful medicine."

CONVINCED OF MERITS, HE TELLS EXPERIENCE TO BENEFIT OTHERS

Uniontown man thinks everyone should know about Drecto, the great root and herb remedy.

"I searched a long time to find the right medicine for my troubles and now that I have succeeded I feel it is nothing short of my duty to tell others about it so they too, can get the same relief that I got by taking the new medicine Drecto, declared Mr. Alfonso Hambrick employed by the Frick Coal and Coke Co., at Uniontown, Pa.

"I had some kind of blood disorder and Drecto has wiped it out entirely. My bowels were constipated, nerves all at places, had taste in my mouth, tongue coated and catarrh kept me clearing my throat and hacking all the time. At night my breath was as hard and upon waking I'd be stopped up and required several hours to get rid entirely of the phlegm.

"Drecto helped me from the start so I kept taking it and got better week by week. Gained about ten pounds in weight, sleep well, breathe easy, get up refreshed and full of energy.

The constipation greatly relieved and the catarrh greatly improved! Drecto is a medicine of excellent merit and I'm delighted with it."

Drecto acts on the liver in a smooth, gentle manner, gradually working off the excess bile day by day. It is neither strong nor harsh and does not excite the muscles of the bowels as strong cathartics do. It tones up the digestive organs and rouses gas on the stomach, puts an end to constipation, increases the appetite, gives strength to weak kidneys, restores tired nerves and induces sound sleep. Drecto is a great blood purifier and system cleanser.

The Connelville Drug Company is introducing DRECTO to the people of Connelville. Call on them. Let them tell you of the thousands of Pennsylvania men and women who give Drecto all the credit for their present good health.—Advertisement.

Geysers Harnessed to Furnish Power

The largest group of geysers in California, in Sonoma county, is being harnessed on the steam engine to provide power, says Popular Mechanics.

At the middle of February, one geyser had been tapped and connected with a steam engine, where it yielded 150 horsepower, which was put to work immediately drilling the "well" with which another geyser is to be tapped and likewise connected with another engine. The ultimate object of the project is to provide steam enough from the whole group of geysers to drive turbines in a power house, thereby supplying electric current, at a cost price below even that at which hydroelectric power can be produced, to a dozen large towns and cities.

Only about one-half of the steam available from the first geyser has been taken, owing to errors in drilling the first well and to lack of experience in keeping the steam contained and hot between the geyser and the engine. Plans under which the work is now being done provide for the taking of approximately 90 per cent of the steam from each geyser tapped in the future.

Though volcanic heat has been harnessed in the past, this is the first time it has been harnessed to furnish power.

nected in Italy, this is the first time that ever has been taken from the subterranean fires of the New World.

The method of taking the steam from the geysers is comparatively simple. A well is driven at an angle, from a point some hundred or more feet from the mouth of the geyser, to strike the throat of the geyser at a depth of 200 to 400 feet, this depth depending on the solidity of the earth and rock formation surrounding the geyser.

Closely following the drill goes the 3-inch pipe, and when this tube breaks through the side of the throat of the geyser, the steam, under considerable pressure, follows it as an outlet, rather than the rougher and usually twisted natural vent. The upper end of the 3-inch pipe is then capped, an exhaust, and a safety valve put on, and the steam conveyed in a smaller pipe to the engine.

Here Is "Nature's Greatest Food"

What Scientists Say About the Chief Elements of Father John's Medicine.

If you find yourself getting nervous, irritable and inactive, do not attribute your condition to no so-called "spring fever." You are really in a run-down condition and are suffering from a lack of proper nourishment. You need a tonic to build up your strength and health and to increase your power of resistance.

You should take just such a tonic as Father John's Medicine. The chief element of Father John's Medicine is commonly called by physicians "nature's greatest food." This element is divided up into the finest of particles which are readily taken up by even the weakest of digestive systems. Father John's Medicine nourishes the body tissue and enriches the blood, so that the people taking it are soon restored to normal health. Start taking Father John's Medicine today.—Advertisement.

At the Theatres

THE PARAMOUNT.
"THE GHOST PATROL" showing today and tomorrow at this theatre presents Ralph Graves and Hester Love in the leading roles. In this picture old age has been made the motif of a touching drama. The story concerns a veteran policeman, devoted to duty and the people on his pensioned bond for thirty years, who is retired. The tragedy of the old man's broken heart is lightened by the sunshine of youthful love and the story is unique in its double appeal to young and old.

The strength of the story itself is admirably supported by the characterization of the all star cast. George Nichols, who will be remembered as the father in "Molly-O" and soon to be seen in "The Hunt", plays the unique role of the aged officer to perfection. While George B. Williams gives another of his clever Jewish characterizations, Ralph Graves, former Griffith star and Hester Love, who is known as one of the most popular stars, are ideally fitted to the role of the young lovers which require strong emotional acting. Nat Ross directed the production. Raymond L. Schrock, scenario editor at Universal City, wrote the scenario from Sinclair Lewis' story.

Wednesday and Thursday Gladys W. Dalton will be seen in "A Dangerous Age."

THE SOISON.
"THE DANGEROUS AGE"—The feature picture today, Tuesday and Wednesday at this theatre, is a First National picture with Lewis Stone in the stellar role. Among the other members of the cast are such celebrities as Edith Roberts, Ruth Clifford, Helen Lynch, James Morrison, Glee Madison, Myrtle Steadman, Edward Burns, "Delicieux," Lincoln Steadman and Richard Tucker.

The story is an original from the pen of Francis I. and Irene Roca and treats interestingly of the domestic problems and affairs of an average American family. It contains a near-tragedy, several melodramatic thrills and plenty of suspense and humor.

The picture takes its name from the theme, a subject that has long been a matter of popular discussion. As a rule, parents point to the "Hesper" period as the dangerous age, while the rising generation insists that the so-called "settled" age really rests on the brink of domestic disaster and infidelity.

In this production, Mr. Stahl handles the question in a most effective manner, keeping it free from preachment and getting the most out of every situation.

"The Dangerous Age" is a novel photoplay in a number of respects. The producer demonstrates that it is possible to film a story of real life, containing incidents that could happen to any of us, and yet imbue it with a dramatic intensity that is overpowering.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "Broken Chains" will be shown.

THE ORPHEUM.
"BELLA DONNA"—Pola Negri's first American made picture, which opened today at this theatre, for a four-day attraction, is a stupendous screen triumph. Never has this celebrated screen star been seen in a more powerful or appealing story.

In this absorbing dramatization of Robert Eichen's famous novel, Miss Negri marries a young Englishman who has just returned from an expedition in the Egyptian desert. On their honeymoon they return to that country so that Nigel (Conrad Nagel) may continue his work. The East lays a hypnotic spell on Bella Donna and when she meets Mahmoud Baroudi (Conway Tearle), intensely dramatic events ensue.

The love affair between the pair continues for a period, when Baroudi suggests that Bella Donna free herself by poisoning her husband. Nigel Armino is slowly wasting away as the result of slow poisoning but is saved by the intervention of his friend Dr. Isaacson (Clayton Kline). Learning the truth, Nigel casts out his wife who, now free, joyfully makes her way to Baroudi's camp. He, however, is with another woman, and brutally orders her away. Bella Donna pops out alone into the desert, a tragic figure.

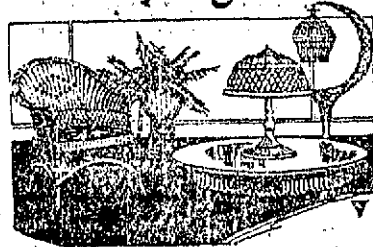

Miss Negri has set the world astir by her foreign made pictures, but this, her first American made production, overshadows the rest. It is all in all, a superb photodrama. Conway Tearle, in the role of Mahmoud Baroudi, makes an unusually sinister villain, while Conrad Nagel is excellent as the weak, unsuspecting husband, Nigel Armino. Others in the cast are Lois Wilson, an Patricia, Nigel's fiancée; Macey Harlan and Robert Schable. This is the nearest all-star cast ever seen in any picture.

Friday and Saturday, Jack Holt will be seen in "Making a Man."

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole. Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing solvent penetrates the pores; then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness. 35c and 65c in jars and tubes. Better than a mustard plaster.

Athletes Entering on Last Weeks of Training for Field Meet to Be Held at Dawson

Events Will Take Place Under Auspices of County Schools.

ON SATURDAY, MAY 12

With the field meet of the Fayette County Intercollegiate Athletic Association at hand, every youth in the Connelville High School who intends to show his right spirit by trying for a place in some event should be reporting regularly. Three weeks is a very short period to whip a young man into shape for any endurance contests but there are many other events that the Orange and Black cannot participate in unless a larger squad reports at once.

The field meet at the Dawson Driving Park on May 12 is the first in the county in which athletes of the local institutions will have participated. Some of the boys to whom school spirit means more than others have been working out ever since the first call for candidates. Others have failed to stand behind their school.

Most of the athletes are sprinters or distance runners and the Cokers are likely to capture some of these events. Many of the township schools will be strong contenders as athletes in such institutions have been working hard for the meet. It is the one opportunity the schools with smaller enrollments have for competing on an equal basis with the larger institutions and every opportunity will be taken advantage of.

Of Interest to Fans.

The Coker Independents will play any first-class 17 years old boys team for games write Joseph Panzella 505 West Gibson avenue.

The Uniontown Tennis Association has opened two of its four courts and playing is already under way. A membership campaign is being conducted.

The Connelville Tennis Association expects to have its courts in shape by the end of this week. The surface has to be smoothed out and new wire placed on the lower half of the fence.

SWINE BREEDERS TO RAISE $25,000 FOR STATE DORMITORY

Swine breeders of Pennsylvania have contributed more than $20,000 to a fund for the erection of a student dormitory unit at the Pennsylvania State College, and there is every indication that it will be increased to $25,000 before long. The amount would represent one-fourth of the entire cost of the building completely furnished. Men engaged in all branches of the livestock industry in the state are combining to provide the building.

The fund has been swelled by the addition of $2,000 in pledges from the Berkshire swine growers of Lancaster county. This amount will provide a furnished room for one student in the proposed residence hall. The room should be in service for 100 years or more as the building is to be made of the most lasting materials obtainable. Swine breeders have responded very generously to the project. According to Dr. H. H. Haver, extension swine specialist at the college, Fayette county Poland China breeders have pledged over $4,000 which will provide room for two students each year, and the Northumberland county Duroc men have raised $2,000. Contributions have come from many other counties, including Snyder, Union, Mifflin and Dauphin.

Uniontown Pastor Pleased That Dance Marathon Is Barred

Officials of Uniontown should be highly commended for refusing to allow a marathon dance in this city, declared the Rev. H. A. Reiser, pastor of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church Uniontown. In a few preliminary remarks to his congregation Sunday evening before delivering his evening sermon.

Further asserting his approval of the official action, Rev. Reiser expressed himself as well pleased with local officials who thought of the welfare of their community enough not to let it follow the example of other cities in becoming the dwelling place of lunatics. "The dancing marathon which have become the craze in so many places," said Rev. Reiser, "is really explained as the word 'craze' is derived from the word 'crazy' and well suits those who indulge in such 'craze'. Those persons who have been indulging in this form of pastime may well be known for their expression of mental vacuity."

If instructors in the high schools of the country would start a marathon among the students in the conjugation of verbs, they would be better served than students trying to break dancing records. These new records of insanity are being made everywhere and those who are making them should be put to work as a crane instead of being allowed to make such records. The dance hall is a public nuisance to health and it is also a parasite on society. The idea of the marathon dance will soon eliminate itself which will be more quickly done than a large number of sermons against the dance.

Beavers Absent 100 Years, Return To Somerset County

SOMERSET, April 22.—The beaver has returned to Somerset county after an absence of a full century from the rivers and creeks that were originally its favorite habitat, and a hubbub has been created among the county's sportsmen by the discovery of what seems a veritable beaver lodge in the Laurel Hill creek, on North Fork tributary of the Youghiogheny River, two miles west of Bakerstown. On the creek banks are stumps of eight trees, all of one species which the beavers have cut down as effectively as any human axman could have done the work.

SEEK ANNALS IN UR OF MEN WHO LIVED 10,000 YEARS AGO

By United Press.
LONDON, April 23.—American and British archaeologists engaged in excavating the tomb of the Moon God in the ancient city of Ur of the Chaldees have begun the search for the records of Abraham, says an airplane dispatch from the Baghdad correspondent of the London Daily Mail. The excavators, says the correspondent, hope to recover the world's first and oldest library of original works on history, religion, law, science, and the narratives of the affairs of men 5,000, and perhaps 10,000, years ago. When the work of the expedition is done, he adds, it may yield a wholly new story of the inception of the religious movement that prepared the world for Christianity, or it may corroborate the story in Genesis.

Describing his visit to Ur, the correspondent says that it is probably to this 6,000-year-old city that the world owes the development of cities, great irrigation schemes, gardens, water supply, the use of land and animal, drainage and fortifications, "bricks," he writes, "were made in Ur earlier than in Egypt. Here the arch was invented and the vault systematically used in monumental structures, and it was in Mesopotamia that the dome became prominent. Forty centuries before Christ Ur was a great city in the midst of cultivation. Even now the line of silted-in canals can be seen stretching away to the far horizon.

"For more than 2,500 years," the correspondent proceeds, "since Darius and his Persian hordes swept over the land, Ur has been deserted except for Bedouins. That the ruins of a vast city which was once trod by Abraham are there is definitely known. Only tentative exploring shafts have been sunk here and there over the wide expanse, but each has yielded relics of a lost people, the Sumerians. It is now known that after Abraham left Ur there came a long period of darkness. The impending collapse of the dynasty was probably the reason for his departure. "It has been discovered that after destroying the city the conquerors burned the tablets, buried in the laid pavements over the principal archives beneath each set of pavements, tell the intricate stories of the kings and leaders, merchants, property owners and slaves. Tablets found at Ur show that legal transactions, including marriage contracts, sales and donations, were witnessed by six persons. It is expected to find the record of property sold by Abraham before leaving Ur.

"Records obtained so far show that the Sumerians were nearly extinct in Abraham's time, so that the records are earlier than the Nippur collection. The intentions of the American and British expeditions are to excavate to the first record of occupancy at Ur. Among the finds are tiny leaves of gold which, according to the records were set upon the lips of the dead; a mannikin of three feet, clad in a sheepskin with tail hanging down, made of some hard, green stone, and loess and axes, wrought in stone, which were placed on the altar of the Moon God as emblems of industry."

Where Skirts for Men Are a La Mode

The question of the proper length of a woman's skirt from season to season is one which springs eternal. Even the archaeologists, according to recent newspaper reports, say that it has been a matter of controversy for forty centuries and they point out that the times of the Pharaohs with skirts of varying cuts and lengths.

"Men, too, have had skirts to worry with almost since the dawn of history and some of them—notably the Greek soldiers and the famous 'Ladies from Hell' of the World War—are literally wearing skirts today," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society.

"In fact, the first garment which man evolved after he originated in the tropical latitudes and began drifting toward colder climes was probably a skirt of skins suspended from a girdle. Such a garment was worn by the ancient Babylonians and many others.

"The national costume of the Japanese men is composed of the sarong and the kabaya. The sarong is a brightly colored skirt kept in place around the waist by a silk sash which is worn around the body several times. The skirt falls down over the hips in straight lines and is quite narrow, with one simple deep fold in front. The kabaya is a sort of dressing jacket, often embroidered in elaborate colors. Though the Japanese nobles today are accepting the common-place English and American attire for ordinary occasions, native men of Mozambique and of some of the Pacific Islands also wear the sarong.

"Nothing is dearer to the heart of the many Scotchmen than his family plaid. Once he wrapped himself in the huge oblong piece of cloth and belted in the lower portion which extended down to his knees, forming the kilt. Later this lower part was made separately and was dignified with the name of philibeg.

"The Albanian armed watchman at the doors of foreign embassies and consulates and the Greek soldiers wear what they are pleased to call the 'fustanella,' which is a kilted skirt of knee-length made of white cotton or linen, very full and starched. The royal bodyguard of the Greek king and the Greek peasants on a holiday also wear the 'fustanella.'

"The men of Ponapi Island in the Carolines wear skirts, usually made of grass and palm leaves appended from beaded belts, the king's being more elaborate than the commoner's. And a black king in Africa has on his coronation robes when he can smile in pride in a short skirt and a tall hat.

"Among the aborigines of Australia the women get out their needles made from a little bone from the leg of an emu, thread them with the sinews of opossums, kangaroos, or emus, and do the little 'plain sewing' which makes the necessary skirts for their lords and masters.

"But man suffers one step nearer feminism than the skirt—the kimono. Indeed, it seems that the street attire for the greater part of mankind is a garment of that ilk. The Shah of Persia is all dressed up when he gets on a gorgeous robe cut exactly like the American woman's one-piece kimono, except that his sleeves are long and tight and would be a nuisance to her ladyship if she had to wear them. The material he uses is elaborate and the embroidery around the edges must cost him a pretty penny, but the American woman has him beat for comfort.

"The men in the Toharan streets wear garments of dark colors made in much the same way, the white of their undergarments making a white disk at the neck. The vivid robes of the monks in the temples in Burma are somewhat like the ancient Roman togas. Greek Orthodox priests and Arabs of northern Africa also wear kimono-like garments, the Arab calling his a burnoose. The native costume of the Moors of Timbuctu in the Sahara gives the effect of the long robes with the loose flowing sleeves worn during graduation exercises in American universities.

"In China, Japan, Korea, Tibet and Mongolia they call the garment various names, but when it drifts to American shores it inevitably becomes some woman's kimono. The Mongolian native wears his closely buttoned up at the neck and belted it tight about his waist. The Lamas of the monasteries of Tibet got them several sizes too large and blouse them at the waist.

"The Korean's long unlined overgarment, made of almost transparent material, which reaches below his knees is belted in and from this belt he hangs on the left side two cases for a knife, pair of chopsticks, and his large smoked glasses, and on the right side two bags for his money and tobacco. With that outfit he wears a pill-box hat tied under his chin and carries a fan.

"When the Chintoo of Kholan gather for their weekly summer fete in honor of the life-giving river, they look like a group of men who have borrowed their wives' old kimonos and, part of the bod lines to meet the emergency."
